Description

Course This course develops students' understanding of the importance and diversity of cultures across the world and within the United States. The goal is to provide students with models and tools they can apply to appreciate culture, discuss cross-cultural issues as they apply to human behavior and interaction in various settings, and develop cultural competence in dealing with people from different cultures in an increasingly global and interconnected world. The course approaches diversity from the local and global perspectives and addresses issues of cultural pluralism and multiculturalism, cross-cultural communication, interpersonal and small group interactions, and the impact of diversity o informal and formal organizations.

This course is offered by the School of Letters and Sciences. For more information about the school, visit our website: https://sls.asu.edu/. If you have questions or concerns, please send your inquiry to sls@asu.edu

Description

Assignment (Detailed grading rubrics for each assignment will be posted in modules)

Audio Lessons and Quizzes:

Watch and listen to the weekly quizzes and note any "a ha" moments or connections you make as you watch and listen. Then take the QUIZ right away (after each segment). The guizzes aren't hard but they'll be easier if you do it while the info is fresh in your head.

These audiovisual lessons will save you some reading and get you started on defining basic concepts on and providing a general understanding of culture and the components of local and global cultura diversity and its historical, economic, political, and social roots and impact. We will also look at cultural diversity in the U.S. and in other countries and provide an overview of the general implications of diversity.

Discussion Boards:

The discussion boards are meant to be used as a tool to help you to reflect upon your leanings and discuss your insights with classmates.

Activities:

The weekly activities supplement discussions and papers. They are meant to help make this course more experiential and help those students who learn best by doing.

Cultural Immersion Activity:

Attend a cultural event that is related to a culture or ethnic group that is different from your own. Then write a two page reflection paper in which you include the following:

- 1. A description of the event
- 2. What you learned about the culture from participating, and your reaction to the experience.
- 3. Documentation / proof of attendance: Scan in and attach any program materials. etc. that you collected at the event. You might also want to upload any photos that you take.

Papers must be based on something experienced THIS semester. Families, children and significant others are also encouraged to attend this experience with you.

Papers:

Each module you will be assigned reflection papers to write. The papers should describe your reactions, perceptions and significant insights gaine from the reading and activities. What you write should not be a summary of what you read (as your professor already knows what the readings say) or a simple "regurgitation" of what you read, but be focused on the questions posed in each assignment.

It is preferred that you use double space, but single-spacing will be accepted if you feel you need more "space." Submit your papers then through the "view/complete" link in each module. Remember to put your name at the top and to properly name the file for submission when you save it.

All papers will be graded using the following guidelines:

A = Excellent = Exceptional Paper

- All items requested in the assignment details are included, exceptionally outlined
- Comprehensive grasp of subject matter is demonstrated
- In-depth understanding of relevant concepts issues related to topic addressed / assigned
