Social and Cultural Analysis (Peace Studies), BA

Learn how peace is developed or fractured through societal flash points such as gender, ethnicity, race and religion. Through coursework that develops an ability to create and maintain peace, you become a vital asset for civil rights organizations and NGOs, and in the political and corporate sectors.

Program Description

The BA in social and cultural analysis with a concentration in peace studies is a unique, transdisciplinary offering that fosters a critical investigation of peace. It does so primarily through a humanities lens, but not exclusively, and it provides an analysis of peace in connection with issues such as gender, ethnicity, race and religion.

Students learn many perspectives on peace and approaches to it, including theories and practices of peace-building, nonviolence, and conflict avoidance and resolution. The program builds on the expertise of faculty in the humanities and social sciences in fields such as history, linguistics, literature, ethics, philosophy, sociology, ethnic studies and women and gender studies.

Global Opportunities

Global Experience

With over 250 programs in more than 65 countries (ranging from one week to one year), study abroad is possible for all ASU students wishing to gain global skills and knowledge in preparation for a 21st-century career. Students earn ASU credit for completed courses, while staying on track for graduation, and may apply financial aid and scholarships toward program costs. https://mystudyabroad.asu.edu/

Career Opportunities

There is a growing concern for peace building within social and political institutions. As a consequence, numerous jobs now exist in peace-related sectors. Graduates of this program are prepared with the skills and knowledge necessary for graduate work as well as for careers in government, education, business and nonprofit organizations. Knowledge gained can be applied toward professional and personal advancement in education, writing, policy, law, cross-cultural communication, ethics and work with nongovernmental organizations.

Due to the emphasis on the social aspects of peace, diversity and identity, students develop an awareness of the needs of diverse populations and the discourses that help create a culture of peace, enabling them as graduates to apply their knowledge to areas as diverse as the following:

- civil rights organizations
- colleges and universities
- corporations
- government agencies
- law firms
- libraries
- museums
- nongovernmental organizations (NGOs)
- the Peace Corps
- political action groups
- public relation firms
• research organizations
• social service agencies
