Social and Cultural Analysis (Women and Gender Studies), BA

The women and gender studies concentration provides in-depth study of societal and historical structures that shape gender, identity, opportunity and behavior. Broad examination of feminist theory seeks to understand women's status and influence on society. Graduates will become vital assets in civil rights organizations, NGOs, and the political and corporate sectors.

Program Description

The BA in social and cultural analysis with a concentration in women and gender studies offers students a transdisciplinary curriculum that focuses on the diverse experiences of women in both national and international contexts. The program also examines the meaning of gender as a socially constructed category that shapes personal identities, beliefs, opportunities and behaviors.

The wide range of classes explores the intersections of gender, race, class and sexuality; the institutional structures that have an impact on women's and men's lives; and the broad range of feminist theories that seek to explain and influence women's status in society. Areas of emphasis include gender and sexuality, critical race feminisms, gender and the borderlands, transnational feminisms, social activism and social movements, histories of feminism and critical embodiment studies.
