Educational Studies, BAE

EDSLSTBAE

Moment by moment, day by day and person by person, educators improve lives and strengthen communities. Wherever life takes you, an education degree prepares you to master new knowledge, communicate effectively and thrive in a world --- and an economy --- in which lifelong learning is key to success and happiness.

Program Description

Learning happens everywhere and at all ages. The BAE program in educational studies prepares graduates to work with children, youth and adults in nonprofit settings, community institutions, civic organizations and businesses. The degree program provides a foundation for students to shape the role of education in society and the act of learning. It also helps graduates with effective communication, collaboration, effective leadership, advocacy and innovation. Graduates have identities as educators wherever life takes them, and graduates are ready to help others learn and change the face of learning throughout society.

The BAE in educational studies is intended for students seeking a career in education outside the classroom. This degree does not lead to teacher certification.

Veterans may be interested in this program, as credit may be offered for military service.

An educational studies minor is also available to ASU students in other degree programs.
