Music Composition, MM

Develop advanced skills such as orchestration, electronic studio techniques, film and video scoring and jazz composition. In this master's degree program, you will work with renowned faculty with musical interests that represent a wide variety of genres, ranging from chamber to orchestral, acoustic to electronic.

Program Description

Degree Awarded: MM Composition

The MM program in composition focuses on the development of skills necessary to pursue a career in music composition. Student composers learn through experiential opportunities, including composing for instrumental and vocal colleagues in a variety of genres, leading to performances of their works in venues on campus and off. Project-based experiences including working with the Visiting Quartet Residency program, creating new works for student string quartets while coaching this repertoire with guest artists. Collaboration with music scholars, theorists, performers, educators and other composers under the guidance of renowned composition faculty provide students with a broad and well-rounded foundation for advanced careers in music.
