Design, Environment and the Arts (Design), PhD

Program Description

Degree Awarded: PHD Design, Environment and the Arts (Design)

The design concentration within the PhD in design, environment and the arts is an individualized institute-wide interdisciplinary program that integrates graduate courses and faculty research with expertise in design. Broad in scope, the program is at the cutting edge of creating new knowledge in architecture, design and the arts. The program provides research experience for students wishing to pursue careers in industry as members of transdisciplinary design teams on environmental and energy issues as well as for those wishing to teach in the architecture, design or the art fields.

Admission Requirements

Applicants must fulfill the requirements of both the Graduate College and the Herberger Institute for Design and the Arts.

Applicants are eligible to apply to the program if they have earned a master's degree, in a closely related field, from a regionally accredited institution. Examples of appropriate fields include art history, architectural history, design history or fields in the humanities, such as history or literature; or archaeology and anthropology also may be considered. Students without graduate experience in the history of art, history of architecture and history of design may be asked to fulfill deficiencies.

Applicants must have a minimum of a 3.00 cumulative GPA (scale is 4.00 = "A") in the last 60 hours of their first bachelor's degree program, or applicants must have a minimum of 3.00 cumulative GPA (scale is 4.00 = "A") in the applicable master's degree.

All applicants must submit:

1. graduate admission application and application fee
2. official transcripts
3. GRE scores
4. letters of recommendation
5. personal statement
6. abstract of proposed research
7. proof of English proficiency

Additional Application Information
An applicant whose native language is not English (regardless of current residency) must provide proof of English proficiency.

Applicants must submit a personal statement, abstract of proposed research, and contact information for three references to Slideroom (https://asudesign.slideroom.com). It is required that these be submitted in addition to the Graduate College application requirements.
