Come discover geographical sciences at ASU. The MA program in geography offers a unique learning environment that places your focus on location --- the heart of geography, urban planning, climatology and GIS. With that foundation, you can tackle some of the most pressing environmental and societal challenges facing our world today.

Program Description

Degree Awarded: MA Geography

The MA program in geography is designed to offer specialized academic and professional training in geography so students may secure a sound graduate background for further specialization or for immediate employment. The program has sufficient flexibility to allow for individual needs and interests, allowing students to create a plan of study that fits their personal and professional goals.

Students in the master's degree program have the ability to build a path of knowledge that reflects their personal interests within the realms of geography. Students work alongside esteemed faculty members to conduct research in one of four broad interdisciplinary themes: computational spatial science; earth systems and climate science; place, identities and culture; or sustainability science and studies.
