Philosophy (Morality, Politics and Law), BA

LAPHIMPBA

Accelerated options for this program are not currently available to ASU Online students.

Liberty, equality and justice are the basis of many legal systems. Combining courses of philosophy, law, politics and policy enables you to tackle these topics, and when moral questions arise concerning politics and law, you will be able to explore the answers philosophically.

Program Description

The BA in philosophy with a concentration in morality, politics and law combines the basic analytical approaches of philosophy with an emphasis on the moral questions that arise in political theory and law. The foundations of our political and legal systems are moral values, such as individual liberty, equality and justice. These are contested values, open to different understandings of their nature and implications.

Students explore the nature of morality, political theory, legal theory and the interconnections between them. Students complete philosophy courses as well as courses from disciplines related to philosophy to enrich and enliven their understanding of the intersections of morality, politics and law. This degree program is of special interest to students planning to pursue postgraduate work in law, policy or politics.

Students currently enrolled in the Bachelor of Arts in philosophy with a concentration in morality, politics and law may not pursue a concurrent degree with the Bachelor of Arts in philosophy or the Bachelor of Arts in philosophy with a concentration in science, nature and mind due to the high level of overlap in curriculum. Students should speak with their academic advisor for any further questions.
