Become a person of culture --- multiple cultures. With an international focus and a deep exploration of a foreign language, a degree in international letters and cultures makes you a citizen of the world, someone in demand for a variety of careers and disciplines.

Program Description

The BA in international letters and cultures is a degree grounded in the advanced study of at least one foreign language. It is more transcultural and transdisciplinary than a traditional languages and literature degree program and is designed to encourage students to explore and challenge the traditional boundaries of cultures, texts and disciplines. Students work closely with faculty and advisors to choose a program that combines study and research in a minimum of two cultures or disciplines, or in both.

Students must meet with an advisor in the School of International Letters and Cultures to discuss this degree option; it is not recommended for first-year students.
