This is a program like no other: it blends sports, law and business. Phoenix is home to all four major professional sports, making it the perfect location to study this unique topic. Graduates land jobs at premier sports organizations around the country, and the program has 100 percent placement in sports law externships.

Program Description

Degree Awarded: MSLB Sports Law and Business

The Sandra Day O'Connor College of Law at Arizona State University offers a master's degree in sports law and business, in partnership with the W.P. Carey School of Business and in full cooperation with ASU's athletics department.

The MSLB program provides students with the training to understand the regulatory and revenue forces that drive the increasingly global sports industry: legal, policy, business, branding and marketing. The program uses a small class environment to deliver a problem- and project-based legal and business curriculum taught by recognized academic and professional leaders. That curriculum, together with an applied project, prepares students with the skills necessary to address the difficult issues present in the sports industry.

This unique graduate program can be completed on a full-time basis in a 12-month period or in two or fewer years for part-time students working in the field.

6. two letters of recommendation
7. writing sample no less than two typed pages
8. explanations to affirmative answers to any conduct questions
9. proof of English proficiency

Additional Application Information
A student whose native language is not English (regardless of current residency) must provide evidence of English proficiency as indicated by acceptable scores. Applicants should have a TOEFL score more than 600 (paper), 250 (computer), or 100 (internet). Exceptional candidates with relevant experience and background who have scores of at least 590 (paper), 243 (computer) or 96 (internet) also are considered. ASU’s institutional code is 4007.

Official transcripts from all postsecondary institutions of higher education attended must be submitted to the College of Law. An official transcript is a transcript certified by the issuing school and sent directly to ASU or delivered to ASU in a sealed envelope with a seal intact.

Applicants who have received undergraduate or graduate degrees from foreign institutions must have their transcripts evaluated by World Education Services, and WES must send that evaluation to the offices of the Sandra Day O’Connor College of Law.

Admission to the program is competitive. Selection is based on a variety of factors, including academic background and potential, diversity of experience and background, career experience and ambitions, space and resource limitations in the law school and other factors.
