If you are a registered nurse, consider the MS program in nursing with a concentration in care coordination. You'll receive advanced preparation to translate and apply effective patient-centered care coordination services that improve health outcomes, enhance health care quality and reduce health care costs.

Program Description

Degree Awarded: MS Nursing (Care Coordination)

Graduates are specialists able to synthesize innovation principles and best available evidence to lead interprofessional teams to design, deliver and evaluate care coordination practices that are patient-centered; improve health, safety and cost outcomes; and enhance quality and access to care across diverse populations.

This program supports preparation for national certification as a case manager through the American Nurses Credentialing Center or through the Case Management Society of America.
