The future of health care is changing. The systems and processes that make up the industry are coming face to face with rapid increases and improvements in technology. Employers need professionals who can approach problems with new outlooks and toolsets. Pursue this BS in health entrepreneurship and innovation --- the first of its kind in the country.

Program Description

The BS program in health entrepreneurship and innovation provides students with a broad background in the principles of innovation, leadership, complexity science, change theory, collaboration and evidence-based decision-making to prepare graduates to manage implementation of innovation in the health care arena.

Through the use of evidence-based decision-making and leadership skills in interprofessional teams, graduates are ready to tackle health care challenges using modern technology, public policy and communication. This unique program situates students at the intersection of innovation and entrepreneurship, enabling them to develop their own solutions to health challenges.

Program areas of emphasis:

- develop competence in the design, application and testing of innovative processes and products
- incorporate current trends with interprofessional teams
- lead processes of innovation and transformation
