Currently ranked No. 3 by U.S. News & World Report, this program prepares you to be an agile, results-driven leader in emergency management and public safety. The degree is customizable, with community resilience and disaster management courses, electives, and five concentration options --- to fit your unique goals.

Program Description

The emergency management concentration under the MA in emergency management and homeland security degree is designed for individuals who intend to assume greater management responsibility in helping communities reduce vulnerability to hazards and cope with disasters in both private and public settings. Students gain an essential understanding of the entire vision, mission and principles of emergency management with an emphasis on leadership, management, use of technology and cross-agency collaboration.

Overall, this degree program promotes stronger and more resilient communities by helping prepare students to engage in the effective management of hazards and crises. This program assists the professional development of current or future practitioners as the next generation of leaders in areas related to emergency and disaster management, hazards management, public safety and homeland security.

The program's students serve communities across the United States in either public, private or nonprofit sector organizations. Through collaboration among faculty, students and the practitioner community, this is a leading-edge program that addresses the complex array of 21st century challenges which require thoughtful and informed leadership.
