
Program Description

The homeland security concentration within the MA degree in emergency management and homeland security is focused on homeland security as a field, applicable to all levels of government (federal, state, local) and to positions in private sector organizations with functional and operational related to organizational security.

Overall, this degree program promotes stronger and more resilient communities by helping prepare students to engage in the effective management of hazards and crises. This program assists the professional development of current or future practitioners as the next generation of leaders in areas related to emergency and disaster management, hazards management, public safety and homeland security. The program's students serve communities across the United States in either public, private or nonprofit sector organizations. Through collaboration among faculty, students and the practitioner community, this is a leading-edge program that addresses the complex array of 21st century challenges which require thoughtful and informed leadership.
