International Trade, BS

TBINTRABS

In the growing field of international trade, skilled managers are highly sought after by global corporations. Prepare yourself for leadership roles with courses offered through this unique degree program, such as supply chain management for global operations, international trade and regional economic agreements, and big data in the global economy.

Program Description

Thunderbird's STEM-designated BS program in international trade provides rigorous training for a career in global commerce.*

The Bachelor of Science in international trade provides talented, driven students the exposure to the global business environment that will distinguish them in the workforce. Students learn the functional disciplines of international business while gaining an in-depth understanding of the political, cultural and economic aspects of doing business on a global scale and in international markets in which government regulations vary widely from country to country.

Supported by Thunderbird's training that builds a global mindset, students gain tools for managing supply chains, systematically assessing risk, exporting and importing goods and services, and using economic agreements to develop effective strategies for conducting international trade.

The Thunderbird Difference

This program is unique in allowing students to learn new skills needed for a career in international trade through comprehensive, hands-on training and to apply these skills during a local, national or international internship. Along with real-world learning experiences that open up global career opportunities, students attend courses taught by outstanding Thunderbird graduate school faculty and enjoy unique opportunities to learn from fellow students from around the world.

Graduates of this program possess the intercultural skills and global mindset needed to do business or take on a leadership role in any part of the world. Employers hire Bachelor of Science in international trade graduates for their proven ability to develop effective strategies for international trade and exporting goods and services.
Thunderbird graduates join a renowned global network of Thunderbird alumni working in all parts of the world, in all industries and sectors. T-birds make a difference everywhere they go, and their careers can take them anywhere.

Thunderbird's Bachelor of Science in International Trade is also offered in a flexible online format. See https://asuonline.asu.edu/online-degree-programs/undergraduate/international-trade-bs/ for more information.

*As a bonus for international students, this program meets special F-1 international student status requirements. This means that international students who graduate with the Bachelor of Science in international trade degree qualify for a 24-month extension to their Optional Practical Training in the United States beyond the 12 months already provided to international students in non-STEM degrees.
