International Trade, Certificate

Are you interested in trade across borders? Do you want to be at the forefront of emerging markets? This program will help you on your way to a high-demand career in international trade.

Description

International trade is increasingly important in this globalized economy, but also increasingly challenging. The International Monetary Fund predicts that most of the world's economic growth in the next decade will take place in the largest emerging markets, which are not always easy for companies and nonprofit organizations to penetrate. Most of the world's consumers are outside of the United States. Given these trends, organizations across sectors that operate in multiple countries are increasingly in need of managers who understand the complexities of the global economy.

The certificate program in international trade provides students with an understanding of foreign markets and the intricacies of international trade, laying the foundation for a career that can take them anywhere in the world.

Thunderbird School of Global Management has produced unique leaders for more than 70 years, leaders in every sector capable of tackling the world's greatest challenges. Home to the BGM and BS in international trade, the school's innovative and practical curriculum complements a strong core of global business management skills, international political economy and cross-cultural training, with a transdisciplinary approach. The alumni network has over 45,000 graduates across 170 chapters around the globe.

Depending on a student's undergraduate program of study, prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this certificate.

Study abroad or international experience is encouraged but not required. Consider ASU Study Abroad opportunities.

Enrollment Requirements

Incompatible Majors: BGM in global management and BS in international trade

No more than six credit hours may be shared between certificate and other degree programs, minors or other certificates.

A student pursuing an undergraduate certificate must be enrolled as a degree-seeking student at ASU. Undergraduate certificates are not awarded prior to the award of an undergraduate degree. A student already holding an undergraduate degree may pursue an undergraduate certificate as a nondegree-seeking graduate student.
The certificate application (https://students.asu.edu/forms/undergraduate-certificate) may be submitted to ugadvising@thunderbird.asu.edu.

Career Opportunities

Graduates who combined the certificate in international trade with their major program of study may be more marketable to employers. They often decide to pursue employment in corporations, governments and nonprofits in positions such as global entrepreneur, global logistics manager, international compliance manager or national marketing manager.

Advanced degrees or certifications may be required for academic or clinical positions.
